Pants down is on the up

The saggy pants fashion is believed to have started in prisons, where inmates aren't given belts with their baggy uniform pants to prevent hangings and beatings. The trend then made it to gangster rap videos, then went on to skateboarders in the suburbs and is now influencing mainstream fashions.

Minimise the risk

Body Bronze advises you to respect the power of UV light - you can always choose to tan less.

At Body Bronze, they complete a 'Tan Smart Duty of Care Assessment' with clients which helps minimise any risk of sunburn or permanent skin damage.

The intensity of UV light in a solarium is moderated by time. Let the staff there help you identify the suitable UV exposure time for your skin type and restrict your exposure to a moderate level. The staff will provide personalised advice on exposure times and lotion use and will assist to maintain moderate exposure levels.
