

Open Day action

Campuses around the state were open for inspection in recent weeks. Pictured here are the University of Melbourne (photographer Peter Casamento) as well as RMIT and Monash.

ustar

Horoscopes with Stephanie McCormick

ARIES Under clumsy Jupiter, uncoordinated Arians will fall down a flight of stairs, and later become celebrities when footage of it hits YouTube.

TAURUS An obsession with energy drinks will lead to an out-of-court settlement when it's revealed they are more addictive than cigarettes.

GEMINI Industrious Geminis will start their own business, but be very disappointed upon discovering that 'Professional Wrestler Impersonators' are not in as high demand as they thought.

CANCER Extreme poverty will cause Cancers to take on a second job as a telephone psychic, and be disturbed when their premonitions actually come true.

LEO Stressed Leos will have an early mid-life crisis, which will result in them taking up yoga and buying a ridiculously flashy and impractical sports car.

VIRGO Virgos will require an embarrassing trip to the doctor when a drunken nudie run results in inconveniently placed frostbite.

LIBRA After watching the Olympics, Librans will be inspired to train for the next Games. They will cease training when an Olympic-themed video game becomes available on Nintendo Wii.

SCORPIO An adventurous new Moon inspires Scorpios to travel overseas, where they will meet an exotic backpacker named Javier. They will later regret this when Javier comes to Australia and sleeps on their floor for three months.

SAGITTARIUS Stylish Sagittarians will attend Fashion Week, become the muse of a hot young designer and inspire a range of expensive velour tracksuit pants. The designer will file for bankruptcy next month.

CAPRICORN Charitable Mercury inspires Capricorns to take in an international exchange student. They will later plead their innocence when the student gets deported after being exposed as an intelligence operative trying to take down the Australian government.

AQUARIUS Lucky Aquarians will win big at blackjack at the casino. They will subsequently lose even bigger on the very next hand.

PISCES Harmonic Pisceans will get a record deal when a producer happens to hear their drunken rendition of Summer of '69 at a party.