Student of the Year

Chisholm's youth work student Lauren Johansson has been named Victoria's Vocational Student of the Year in the prestigious Victorian Training Awards.

Johansson was short listed amongst some of Victoria's most talented and highly skilled vocational students and said being named the state's top vocational student has been both an honour and a surprise.

"It was extremely exciting," she said, "It hasn't quite sunk in. I honestly didn't go into the awards thinking I would win but it is such a nice feeling to be recognised by my industry and by the training awards."

"Receiving Victoria's highest training award will certainly open up new doors for me. It is such a great opportunity and already I'm setting my goals higher as a result," she said.

Johansson now becomes a strong Victorian hopeful heading into the Australian Training Awards which will be held in Darwin later this year.

Becoming interested in pursuing recreation/ adventure-based therapeutic interventions through programs/ projects that have youth recreation as the primary focus, Johansson recently joined the Mornington Peninsula Shire Council as youth recreation officer.

Johansson has also held various roles with the Salvation Army Peninsula Youth and Family Services organisation. These included family and community enhancement worker, mentor recruitment worker, case manager, and recreational co-ordinator.
