

Anne Webster and Glenda Underhill

La Trobe - Human rights
Scholarships to prestigious European Union Summer School on Human Rights.

Nick Chamberlain, Sam Mayo, Jarrod Rice and James Ao

Ballarat - Gaming technology
The four students finished in the top three in a major award category during the recent Game Connect: Asia Pacific conference.

Stephanie Suter

La Trobe - Ecosystem research
Elliott Newspaper Group $5000 honours environment research scholarship.

Cinzia Cantacessi

Melbourne - Research
$5,000 Dr Sue Newton scholarship to study parasites with Belgium scientist Dr Peter Geldhof

Greg Banson

Box Hill - Writer
First year professional writing student has won the Rotary Club of Mont Albert and Surrey Hills $700 Access and Equity Scholarship.

Hyundai Motorsport team

Kangan Batman - Racing
Top honours at Shannon's National Manufacturers Championships.

Lochlan von Moger

Swinburne - Saving water
$15,000 Reece Bathroom student innovation award.

Law School Moot team

Melbourne - Arguing the case
From left, Felicity Ryburn, Seamus Coleman, Sonja Zivak, Dave Heaton and Sienna Merope are the Australian champions and now head to Washington for the International Law Moot Court Competition.

Victorian Rhodes Scholar

A final year Monash University medical student has been named the 2009 recipient of the Victorian Rhodes Scholarship Prize.

24-year-old Anthea Lindquist will study for a Masters in Global Health Science at Oxford University, a degree which imbues graduates with advanced skills in epidemiology, public health development and economics. She then plans to return to Melbourne for specialist training in obstetrics and gynaecology.

Lindquist was chosen from four Victorian finalists, including a second Monash University Medicine student Robert Mitchell, by a selection panel including the Governor of Victoria Professor David de Kretser.

Lindquist said she applied for a Rhodes Scholarship because she recognised that acquiring knowledge and becoming part of a worldwide network of people who share the same vision were the most powerful tools to facilitate change.

"Through travel and work in Vanuatu and Fiji I have witnessed the inequalities that exist in the provision of health care and as a result I have become passionate about effecting change," she said.

Robert Mitchell, also a final year medical student at Monash has been short listed as a candidate for an Australia at large Rhodes Scholarship.

Emma Mits, Stacey Weeding and Robin Lau

RMIT - Food science
Winners of food industry internships (pictured with Prof Neil Mann)

2009 Graduate Careers Conference

Your ticket to success

Are you in your final year of study in finance, accounting and business? Looking for that dream job?

If this sounds like you, then don't miss out on CPA Australia's Graduate Careers Conference. This year's conference will profile a number of leading employers who will each present what graduate positions are on offer and what they look for in a successful applicant.

This event is FREE to all CPA Passport students. To become a CPA Passport student, register at cpacareers.com.au and don't forget to register for the conference.

Melbourne Thursday 26 March 1.00pm - 6:00pm Crown Towers River Room, Level 1, 8 Whiteman Street, Southbank VIC

CPA PASSPORT

