

China dreams

"In February 2007, I stumbled across an advertisement to go to China and teach English," Simon Ogilvie-Lee says.

"This led me to the Australasia Training Academy (ATA), where I completed my internationally accredited TESOL course. Shortly thereafter, having obtained my TESOL Teacher's License, visa, and flight, headed for Harbin, China. Teaching English to children in a private training school there, I was able to earn six times the local cost of living and had my accommodation provided (at no cost to me) by the school.

See America

If you are looking for a fun way to live, work, travel and study in the USA, then this may be just what you are looking for.

Living and working as an Au Pair in America not only introduces you to the American culture – you will get to know so many other cultures through the friends you make during your stay. You will be one of over 4000 au pairs from more than 50 countries who travel to America each year – a real cultural exchange experience.
